

Subject: ISACA Germany: New Website, IT GRC Congress, BarCamp, Events, Seminars

Dear All,

We have great news for you: since yesterday, our new website is online! We have worked hard to make it more modern, user-friendly and intuitive to make your online experience with us even more enjoyable.

With the launch of the new website, some event management processes are also changing - much of what was previously done manually by colleagues in the office will now be handled by the website. We hope that these changes will enable us to offer you a faster and better service.

In addition to the new design, we have also set up an internal area especially for our members. We ask you to register there and point out that only registered members have the opportunity to register for our seminars at discounted member prices and to receive our IT governance journal and other publications. The approval of the registration is done manually - we ask for your understanding if the sending of the registration confirmation email takes some time.

Of course, minor errors may still occur during the transition to the new website. Should you notice anything or should you have problems at one point or another, please do not hesitate to contact our office. We are very grateful for your feedback and will be happy to assist you with any concerns.

We hope you will enjoy the new website. Take a look and see for yourself! Please also remember to register as a member!
